TENTATIVE DECISION TO RENEW THE HAZARDOUS WASTE OPERATING PERMIT

EPA I.D. #: KY0-001-012-012, AI#: 48952

The Kentucky Energy and Environment Cabinet (Cabinet), Division of Waste Management (Division) has tentatively decided to renew the Hazardous Waste Operating Permit for the University of Louisville Environmental Protection Services Center (EPSC) to operate a hazardous waste facility located at 1810 Arthur Street, Louisville, Kentucky. The facility's contact person is Ms. Cathy Price and can be reached at (502) 852-2956.

Why does the University of Louisville EPSC need to a permit from the Division?

At the hazardous waste management facility operated by the University of Louisville EPSC, hazardous wastes received from off-site university operations may be treated and are stored until such are eventually shipped off-site to appropriate treatment, storage and/or disposal sites. Kentucky environmental regulations require the University of Louisville EPSC to have a hazardous waste operating permit to store and treat the hazardous wastes managed at the facility. Also, in accordance with regulations, the operating permit must be periodically renewed. Permit renewal is currently required.

How can I tell the Division what I think about this tentative decision?

The Cabinet encourages public involvement and welcomes comments.
