

Sarah Jon Gaddis, Division of Water director, Kentucky Department for Environmental Protection

Sarah Jon Gaddis is the Director of the Division of Water. Since 2012, she has served in several roles in DOW including as the division's Senior Environmental Consultant and Branch Manager of the Compliance and Technical Assistance Branch which included the present Drinking Water and Field Operations Branches. Through those roles she has overseen much of the state's drinking water program, statewide field operations, regulatory enforcement, and the division's response to natural disasters. Originally from Somerset, Kentucky, Sarah has a B.S. in Geology from Morehead State University, an M.S. in Geology from Miami University and is a registered professional geologist. She lives in Frankfort, Kentucky.